

Please do not implement any changes that would lessen the privacy of Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. Before the Indiana Law was passed, I was receiving about a dozen unwanted calls a week, even though I have always had an unpublished number. Now we hardly receive such calls and are able to enjoy the little evening family time we have together without interruption. Prior to the Indiana Law taking action, comments to unwanted solicitors such as "remove me from your calling list" and "I do not authorize you to call me again nor share my name and number with other companies" had no effect. Now, should someone call and we mention that we are registered with the Indiana Secretary of State on the "no call" list, the telemarketer quickly ends the session. The right of privacy is one of the privileges of being an American. Please allow us in Indiana to keep the degree of privacy that our Telephone Privacy Law allows. Thank you.
